Career Quest: Navigate Your Future

The “Career Quest: Navigate Your Future” event was conducted by Mr. Venkatesh Taparia, a faculty member of the DPS Tapi Commerce Department, on 11 July 2025 for Class X students. This insightful session aimed to guide students in choosing the right academic stream—Commerce, Science or Humanities—after the completion of Class X, based on their personality traits and interests.

The event offered students a valuable opportunity to engage in meaningful self-reflection and explore their academic inclinations through a personality-based assessment. This simple yet effective exercise involved nine yes-or-no questions designed to uncover their learning styles, subject preferences and inherent personality traits. Based on their responses, students graded themselves out of nine, providing a numerical insight into their compatibility with different academic disciplines.

A key highlight of the session was stream profiling, where Mr. Taparia presented the distinct characteristics of each academic stream. Commerce was highlighted as a path for students with analytical thinking and an interest in finance, business and economics. Science attracted those with a logical mindset and curiosity about natural laws and experimentation. Humanities, on the other hand, appealed to creatively inclined individuals with empathy and a desire to understand societal structures.

These explanations were further enriched by real-life success stories of individuals who found fulfilment in their chosen fields, demonstrating how personal strengths and interests can translate into meaningful careers.

Interactive discussions added depth to the experience, allowing students to ask questions and resolve doubts about the alignment between academic streams and career goals. Rather than directing students toward a particular path, the session focused on promoting self-awareness and intentional decision-making. Students left the session feeling informed, empowered, and more confident in navigating their educational journey, equipped with the insights needed to make thoughtful and fulfilling career choices.
